

ZOOM Conferencing

The first contact is always the sweetest

This year's first activity within the framework of our Erasmus+ project EUvalues fo inclusion took place on the 17th November 2021, and involved a zoom meeting of 53 students from four partner schools. The students were placed into five breakout rooms with 10 – 13 students in each room. Even though it took a few minutes to break the ice, they soon started chatting, introducing themselves to each other and discussing several interesting things from their daily lives. The main point of discussion was directed to the issue of respecting human values in order to maintain the coexistence of nations in the world and especially in the European Union, something which has been put on hold for some time now, allowing for misunderstandings to grow into arguments, protests and riots all over the EU. Many of the discussions continued well over the allotted time, which is, of course, a positive sign for future joint activities. New friendships were made, not to mention the motivation that was so strong in each chat room.

As teachers we can only say: 'Well done.'
